Kitimat, Terrace, Rupert Plan Area Tourist Brochure

Reprinted from the Prince Rupert Daily News

Representatives of the Kitimat-Stikine Regional District presented a proposal Thursday night for an area tourist brochure calling for the co-operation of the communities of Prince Rupert, Terrace and Kitimat.

The proposal, explained by John Poucette and Craig Campbell of Kitimat-Stikine, was presented to a gathering of about 15, representing regional and local tourist organizations, the councils of each of the three cities, and the Regional Districts.

Advising the communities to rid themselves of parochialism, Campbell, Director of Planning Services for Kitimat-Stikine and the one responsible for much of the work on the proposal, went on to say that each city must "associate with its neighbor, develop ideas that are mutually acceptable and then sell them to the provincial government."

Campbell told those present that the origins of the proposal were to be found in a co-operative effort between Kitimat and Terrace, sponsored by the Regional District, which produced a brochure for use in marketing the area to industry. When the region, supported by the councils of Terrace and Kitimat, presented their ideas for a similar publication on a tourism basis to Larry Provost, Co-ordinator of B.C. Tourist Region "G", it became apparent that a brochure promoting all of the northwest and including Prince Rupert and the Queen Charlotte Islands would be more feasible.

Provost pointed out that in such a case, provincial funding would be more likely. He also noted that the northwest is truly an interdependent tourist area and should be treated as such.

Campbell last night distributed some extracts from a northwest economic report compiled by the province in 1977 which demonstrated that although "Yellowhead 16 Region" produced tourist expenditures of $80 million in 1976 (increased to $95 million in 1977, according to Provost), the region is "still basically a stop en route for most non-B.C. residents, who stay only 1.7 nights on the average." It is the thinking of the supporter, of this tricity brochure that such a promotion would make tourists aware of all that is available in the area and encourage them to stay longer.

Reed Clarke, Industrial Development Co-ordinator for the Skeena-Queen Charlotte Regional District, expressed an interest in the project but suggested that he get together with Campbell to examine the subject further and come up with some sort of cost indication. The Kitimat-Stikine Regional District had prepared a budget calling for an initial expenditure of $60,000 for a press run of 10,000 copies, but this was based on a brochure for the Kitimat - Terrace corridor only.

Clarke also cautioned against assuming an enthusiastic response from the Queen Charlottes, whose residents, he said, are concerned about indiscriminate and uncontrolled development of what Jack Anderson, a Visitors' Bureau Director, referred to as "the last unspoiled bit of British Columbia."

BROCHURE LIKE POSTER
The proposed brochure would be, unfolded, about 20" by 30" a size suitable for hanging as a poster, it was pointed out. One side of the brochure would display an area map with photos keyed in to specific areas of interest. On the reverse, information would be given on the individual communities, including a 1:25 ratio street map and photos and captions about special places of interest.

Provost and Prince Rupert Visitors' Bureau Chairman Hugh Charbonneau expressed their real faith in the project, both saying that it was the finest proposal of the sort that they had seen.

Alderman Earl Mah was also interested in the brochure and felt sure that city council would join its counterparts in Terrace and Kitimat in supporting the plan.

The two Regional Districts will continue to jointly examine the project and a meeting has been proposed for the near future which will hopefully include a representative of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

"Tourism generated $6 million worth of business last year in Prince Rupert alone," commented Visitors' Bureau Co-ordinator Eileen Burford, summing up the feeling of many of those at last night's meeting. "We have to realize that the tourist industry is big business."

Patrick McMcCarthy Hard To Deport !

MONTREAL (CP) — Immigration officers were puzzling Sunday over a deportation order gone awry, as they held a suspected Irish fugitive in a jail here after flying him from Canada to Holland and back in the last five days trying to get him to Ireland.

Patrick Vincent McCarthy, 24, was flown from Winnipeg to Montreal Sunday morning after immigration authorities there took him off an Amsterdam-Vancouver flight on Saturday.

Earlier, Dutch authorities had denied him entry to Holland after McCarthy, accompanied by Canadian officials, refused to board an Amsterdam-Dublin flight on the last leg of his deportation trip.

Dutch authorities said they had no jurisdiction to force him onto the Dublin plane. "We're making arrangements to try again to fly him to Dublin," said Rene Pappone, an immigration spokesman in Ottawa, adding that "there are direct flights to Dublin we can put him on." McCarthy would not likely be moved from the jail before today, he added.

VIOLATED VISA

Authorities say a man named Patrick McCarthy is wanted in Dublin for a hold-up there last year, though McCarthy says Canadian authorities have the wrong man. While Irish authorities have made no request for his extradition, he is being deported for violating his visitor's status by taking a job.

McCarthy, an Irish citizen, has been a thorn in the side of the immigration department since last March when he was arrested in Vancouver on a jaywalking charge. Last week in Vancouver it took three tries to finally fly him out of the country.

Told in March he would be deported for holding a job without proper immigrant status, he hired a lawyer and has spent most of the time in a Vancouver jail fighting the deportation order before federal court.

KEPT IN JAIL

Pappone said he was kept in jail because "we felt he might not appear for the deportation hearings otherwise."

He lost these appeals after numerous court appearances and was ordered deported May 19. After several delays, he was put on a Vancouver-Toronto-Dublin flight last Tuesday, but was taken off at the last minute when immigration officials in Ottawa asked for a delay on a legal question.

With that cleared up later the same day, McCarthy was put on a CP Air flight, but thwarted his deportation and was taken back to jail after shouting, cursing and refusing to be shackled to his seat.

The next day, he agreed to go peacefully on the flight from Vancouver, officials said.

Salmon-Fishing Strike Lifted 30-Minutes Before The Deadline

VANCOUVER (CP) — The possibility of a strike in the British Columbia salmon fishing industry was averted Sunday when the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union lifted its strike plans, about 30 minutes before the noon PDT deadline.

About 4,000 shoreworkers, represented by the UFAW, were set to strike over a contract dispute, hitting the industry at the peak of the salmon season.

Jack Nichol, UFAW president, said the union was not completely calling off the strike, but was giving itself an opportunity to go back to the membership to vote on an offer tabled by the Fisheries Association of B.C. earlier in the day. Details of the offer were not available.

Fishermen had been asked to stop fishing at midnight Friday to allow tenders and shoreworkers to handle fish by the strike deadline.

The shoreworkers had rejected an earlier wage offer from the association by an 82-per-cent margin during a series of meetings at points along the B.C. coast.

They had been offered a 55-per-cent-an-hour increase on rates of $6.72 at base, $7.37 for production workers, $7.59 in cold storage plants and $8.89 for tradesmen.

The union is seeking an 85-per-cent an hour increase for the shoreworkers and a $12.50-a-day increase for the 600 tendermen. The companies' offers amount to about 7.5 per cent over one year.

The 600 tendermen were to vote on the latest offer Sunday, while the shoreworkers negotiating committees will meet today to consider the package.

About 4,500 fishermen, represented by the UFAW, will also vote today on the minimum salmon prices proposed by the industry. The union has recommended acceptance.

However, no agreements will be signed until all three groups have settled.

You Load 15 Tons And What Do You Get?

VICTORIA (CP) — Fifteen men, including nine from Vancouver, were charged in provincial court Sunday with conspiracy to import marijuana, after police seized 15 to 18 tons of the drug Saturday off the west coast of Vancouver Island. The marijuana, worth an estimated $28 million, was taken when police raided two boats near Tofino, B.C. The seizure was one of the largest in Canadian history.

Charged were Robert Sherman Miller, 33, Patrick Joseph Murphy, 30, Ronald Cecil Spurrell, 30, Gordon Barlow Tait, 32, Frederick Macintosh Tait, 35, Frederick Charles Scott, 27, Garth Clarence Sexton, 27, Kevin Gerard Gushue, 26, and Terrence Gerard Trainor, 29, all of Vancouver.

Also charged were Allen Valenti, 36, of Qualicum Beach, B.C., Melville

Douglas Balfour, 31, of Lasqueti Island, B.C., Neil Maxwell Kennedy, 26, of Toronto, Frank Piersanti, 27, of Montreal, John Mobley Doss, 24, of Colorado, and Edwin Floyd Terry, 30, of Virginia.

All were remanded in custody to Tuesday.

RCMP Superintendent Scotty Gardiner said the men were arrested during an unloading operation near Flores Island while Canadian Armed Forces personnel, who had monitored the boats since they entered Canadian waters Friday, looked on.

He said the vessels involved were the 36-metre Toernyn and the 21-metre Weatherly, believed to be a former federal fisheries vessel. About 50 officers converged on the vessels about 7 a.m. PDT and seized the marijuana, Gardiner said.

Israel-Egypt Talks Threatened Switched to Castle to be Safe

LONDON (AP) — Security officials, fearing Arab terrorist attacks, made hurried preparations Sunday to shift the site of this week's Middle East peace talks from a London hotel to a moat-ringed castle in the English countryside.

The Israeli cabinet reported, meanwhile, that it has received new peace proposals from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat but that it will defer taking a public stand on them until after this week's talks in Britain. Israeli officials would give no details of the proposals.

Sources said British Prime Minister James Callaghan's government concluded it could not guarantee the safety of the U.S., Israeli and Egyptian delegations whose meeting, beginning Tuesday, was to have been held in the nine-storey Churchill Hotel in the centre of London. The substitute site is Leeds Castle in Kent County, about 72 kilometres southeast of London, said the sources—U.S. officials who asked not to be identified. The only access to the castle is a drawbridge.

U.S. State Secretary Cyrus Vance and Foreign Ministers Moshe Dayan of Israel and Mohammed Ibrahim Kamel of Egypt and their top aides will remain there throughout their two-day conference.

On their arrival today in Britain, they will be shuttled by helicopter to the castle.

Informed sources said the decision to change locations apparently followed intelligence reports that extremists of the Iraqi-based Palestinian Rejectionist Front planned to attack or try to sabotage the conference in some way. The Rejectionist Front, led by Dr. George Habbash of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, is violently opposed to an Arab-Israeli reconciliation. The former Iraqi prime minister, Abdul Razak al-Naif, was shot twice in the head as he left the Inter-Continental Hotel. Two Iraqis were later arrested and charged with murder. Several other prominent Arabs have been murdered in central London in the last 15 months.

At this week's meeting, Vance hopes to find a formula for reopening the full-scale Israeli-Egyptian peace talks that were suspended in mid-January, over the key issues of the extent of Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories and the future political status of the Palestinians in those lands.

Crowsnest Derailment

CRANBROOK, B.C. CP Ten cars of a CP Rail freight train derailed Sunday in a campsite area, just east of the British Columbia Alberta border in the Crowsnest Pass. The cars left the tracks in an area where there were a number of people holidaying or on picnics, but no injuries were reported. The freight train was west-bound when the ten cars derailed. It was not known what cargo the cars were carrying.

Allowable Filth

Canadians like to think of themselves as clean people - cleaner than most other nationals. Canada's public health standards are presumably akin to those of the United States. When Canadians travel in the U.S. they are not afraid to drink the water or to eat at roadside restaurants. Inoculations against specific communicable diseases are not required on either side of the U.S. - Canadian border. Presumably therefore, health standards are mutually acceptable between our two countries.

So, it might come as something of a shock to look at a few of the 'acceptable levels of filth' in foods by the U.S. Public Health Service.

According to the runaway best-seller "Book of Lists", these are some levels that are permitted in the U.S. by law:

In strawberries, frozen, whole and sliced - a mold count of 55 percent in half of the samples.

In tomato paste, up to 30 fly eggs per 100 gram (roughly 4 ounce) samples, 15 eggs and one larva, or two larvae; or mold count averaging 40 percent (30 percent for pizza sauce).

In popcorn, in six 10 ounce samples, either one rodent pellet or one rodent hair per sample; 2 rodent hairs or 20 gnawed grains per pound with hairs in 50 percent of samples or 5 percent by weight of field corn in popcorn.

In spinach, canned or frozen, either 50 aphids, thrips or mites or eight-leaf miners; two spinach worms or 10 percent decomposition - per 100 grams (about 4 ounces).

Fish? Fresh frozen, - five percent of fish or fillets with "definite odor of decomposition" over 25 percent of fish area; or 20 percent of the fish fillets with "slight odor of decomposition" over 25 percent of fish area.

In asparagus (canned or frozen) the U.S. public health service of the Food and Drug Administration allows up to ten percent of the spears infested with six asparagus beetle eggs, either 40 thrips or five insects per 100 gram samples.

It would be interesting to learn what some of the "allowable filth" levels for food are, in Canada; whether they vary from province to province, and what are some of the actual counts that have been made from food stores and restaurants in the Kitimat and Terrace and nearby communities. Including our water supply.

Following an all-night stomach upset after consuming a "chili-dog" at a local fast food outlet, I telephoned to ask if other customers had had the same misfortune. The girl who answered the phone was very pleasant. "I'm awfully sorry," she apologized. "But the waitress who came on in the morning was supposed to dump out the chili sauce from the night before, and I don't think she did." A check with health authorities revealed that food poisoning is often unnoticed because people who get it sometimes mistake it for a case of 24 hour flu.

Food preparation areas and kitchens can occasionally be seen by customers in restaurants. When sanitary practices are observed repeatedly, customers should not be afraid to complain to the management. Failure to rectify the situation should result in a complaint being lodged with the public health department, the chamber of commerce, the city council - and Consumer's Affairs. In most instances, though, the restaurant or food store will be only too pleased to respond favourably to legitimate complaints, and clean up their act.

Says Man Must Have Higher Loyalty If He Is To Survive

The following is the text of a speech given by Winfred Barton, at Unity Day celebration in Madoc, Ontario, on July 1st. "I AM" stands of Institute of Applied Metaphysics, which has its headquarters in Ottawa.

Being a Canadian citizen by choice - rather than birth, I feel perhaps, more sense of privilege at being able to live and work here in Canada than those who were born here.

Over the past 35 years I have travelled from coast to coast in Canada a number of times, and have visited every major city; not as a tourist - but as part of the job: talking and meeting people and getting their views on life.

It seemed evident that most of these people were more concerned with regional than national issues, almost as if they lived in a series of isolated groups rather than being citizens of the same country. Many felt a sense of hostility towards the central government - and used this as a handy scapegoat to account for all the difficulties of modern times. In effect, it is this separatist attitude itself which causes many of the woes Canada faces today. Strength comes from Unity - in predetermining priority goals which serve everyone, secondary goals of regional interest.

Older countries, such as the U.S.A. and Britain - recognizing the power of unification, stress a heavy national theme from the cradle to the grave. I, for example, was raised on the Theme - "Land of Hope and Glory, Mother of the Free - How Shall We Adore Thee Who Were Born of Thee?" I think it is this early development of national loyalty which spills over to one's adopted country. In some way a mystical transfer is made. Learning to appreciate is a key to happiness.

In recent years however, thanks to the exercises in expanded consciousness as taught by I AM - a new loyalty - and even keener sense of appreciation has developed. Exploration of a new country; a new dimension; a new concept of earthlings as a single unified human race. Which, I am convinced is what must happen if the race is to survive the next few decades of its history.

To put it in a single sentence - I met God. It soon became clear that here is where the first loyalty lies: in the simple law of abundant life - THOU SHALT HAVE NONE OTHER GODS BEFORE ME.

"What? Call a fall election? What's Joe Clark ever done to me?"

By Richard Jackson

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

OTTAWA - National unity simply isn't selling on the political market. Who says so? The voters.

Correspondence secretaries in the offices of Prime Minister Trudeau, Conservative Leader Joe Clark, and New Democratic Leader Ed Broadbent all agree that the mail these days reveals less interest - never mind concern - in unity than any time since separatist Premier Rene Levesque stunned the country by winning Quebec going on two years ago.

How time passes - it was back in November, 1976, but it seems like yesterday - and with time dies the sense of urgency to do something about it.

That, anyway, is the explanation the Prime Minister's office offers of the lack of public interest.

People in English Canada, report federal members of all parties, including the Liberals, have become bored with Levesque, preposterous poseur that he is, and convinced that nothing really is going to happen to unity.

Not now, anyway, or even soon. Perhaps never, as more and more Liberals from Quebec, and some once-flaming separatist enthusiasts from the editorial staffs of the Montreal newspapers report that Levesque not only will lose his referendum but even more surely the next provincial election.

So the public, denied its expected late spring or early summer election by a Prime Minister fearful of losing power, have turned attention away from unity to the more urgent issues of day-to-day living, inflation and the dollar.

Most Liberals like it that way.

One of them who talked without going off the record has been Keith Penner, Liberal MP for Thunder Bay, who'll be running in the oncoming election in another Northern Ontario riding, Cochrane.

Not only weren't a number of his people not really concerned any more about unity, he reported, but disclosed that next time around they wouldn't even be voting Liberal because "they just don't give a damn about Quebec."

This is not merely a nice philosophical attitude - rather an objective statement of the key to human survival.

Early man wandered the face of the earth in small tribes, seeking food and shelter. His dominance over other emerging life forms came about because his reaction to any kind of threat was swifter, and his survival instinct more developed than the others. Anything beyond his own tribe was considered a threat to be eliminated as fast as possible. Then he came to learn that the bigger the tribe the stronger its capacity for survival. Tribes learned to band together in loosely knit agreements - which effectively protected all its members from foreign invaders. This is how provinces and states interact today, all working towards the common wealth of the members.

But the way things stand at present - in an effort to gain the loyalty of adherents - an attitude of regional and national paranoia pervades the planet - with threats, real and imagined being seen on all sides. The stronger the country - and I'm thinking now of the two super powers, the stronger the potential threat.

As a physical monarch provides a stability across time and potential protection and communication among its members, so could the recognition of a spiritual monarchy stabilize earth's affairs so that men could get together under one common Commander and get on with the - now pressing matter of saving the planet.

By emphasizing our common denominator - that all men are heirs to the Kingdom of Heaven, under a single Master of the Universe - as we have found it to be. And seeking the best interests of all humanity, which in the case of the rich countries means giving up some of their privileges to those in greater need, nations would no longer waste precious energy and resources in warlike gestures of intimidation - which is a reflection of primitive instinct rather than the evolved mind in action.

In the last quarter century, molecular biologists have made many great discoveries. Among the greatest of these is the law which demands that earth species evolve or perish.

From the time when the first single celled bacteria tottered on the verge of life - this law has never varied.

The application of his innate intelligence is what brought mankind to the top of the evolutionary scale - while the dinosaur perished.

Other Liberals remain off the record, perhaps out of fear of reprisal from the Prime Minister who has made national unity his Holy Grail and is struggling to make it the one sure re-election issue.

But privately they are frank to admit that to most of English Canada, national unity means blind acceptance of bilingualism, special privilege for Quebec and a resignation to rising French Canadian militancy in Ontario and parts of the West and the Maritimes.

So in the face of this resentment, the worried Liberals are quite content to let the barking dogs of separatism lie as long as English Canadians seem satisfied that they won't bite.

Some of that English Canadian resentment is due, MPs will tell you, to what they are calling "the Anglo Saxon Uncle Toms" in the federal bureaucracy.

These "Uncle Toms" in the senior ranks of the Public Service, in their zeal to bend the knee and tug the forelock to Pierre Trudeau, have made it almost a cult to glorify what they call the "French Fact" while discounting, denigrating and discrediting English Canada as insensitive and even intolerant. Bigoted, too.

These are the people - some of them deputy ministers, others commissioners and chairmen of special federal boards, and all of them appointed by and faithful to Trudeau - who split us into "Anglophones" and "Francophones," equating the English majority and the French minority.

But the quiet on the national unity front may be deceptive.

For out in the English grassroots things are stirring: former Liberal Defence Minister James Richardson and his "Canadians for One Canada" movement, the Calgary-based new Dominion of Canada Party, the Loyalist Party of Canada which ran some candidates in the last election and plans running more in the next, and a half dozen variations of the same "One United Canada" theme.

With or without Quebec.

Parties for Canadians not "Linguaphones."

It had put its life energy supply into developing bulk rather than common sense.

The common sense of jungle law - no longer applies, and becomes self destructive if allowed to persist beyond its time.

The recent war in Viet Nam is a good example of this. Thousands of young Americans, the cream of the crop in terms of good health and education, and presumably with some religious background, though doubtless this would be less emphasized than the nationalistic loyalties, are required to participate. Training camps designed to dehumanize, fashion these lads into professional killers.

All this to the tune of the U.S. Marine Corps March, the symbol of social acceptability - American masculinity in its prime. Then some official conceives of Operation Phoenix, a plan of systematic genocide, cruel and merciless beyond description, inexcusable by any remote logic of wartime strategy. The plan is carried out.

Today these young men are Viet Nam Veterans. Seventy thousand are imprisoned for social crimes. Five hundred thousand are in hospital under psychiatric treatment. All because of the paranoid application of jungle law - and an emphasis on the separateness of men, rather than the togetherness of all things.

In the higher states of consciousness a self transforming perception of one's total unity with all creation is the overwhelming emotion. The normal ego boundaries break down - as man reaches beyond the limits of the body to perceive the Cosmic Plan - the moral order that makes sense to the seeming chaos of separate existences.

I AM - and other I AM's become unified - one in love. It changes a bleak and hopeless view of life to one that has joyful purpose. No more disconnected parts.

These liberated ones stress again and again that lip service is not the answer. God cannot be known save through direct experience. That is what the name of the game is all about.

By emphasizing this single common denominator - as given in the single overriding law of life. THOU SHALT HAVE NONE OTHER GODS BEFORE ME. And by acknowledging that all men are potential heirs to the Kingdom of Heaven - under a single sovereign, all may be saved - together with our beloved planet Earth. To live and glorify in one voice in acknowledgment of the one and only - MASTER OF THE UNIVERSE.

Rejection

The response to an editorial on a visit to my son in Winnipeg who had just had a kidney transplant was quite interesting. I had told how, during my visit to the large city hospital over a period of three days had showed a shockingly low standard of hospital housekeeping and patient care. Mentioned was a heavy swinging corridor door that fell onto a cleaning woman when she was passing through; of dried blood from a previous patient on the floor adjacent a patient's bed that went unremoved. Of delivery of wrong medicines to the patients. Even (as was documented on a television news item) a dead mouse and a mouse nest inside a piece of dialysis equipment transferred from another part of the hospital.

Because of the extreme nature of these incidents, I had not expected many of the readers of the HERALD to believe me. However, the reaction I received was quite the opposite. Not only did they believe, but they had additional stories to tell of other large city institutions.

Well, sadly enough, there is a sequel to this. Of the seven patients who received kidney transplants the same time, at the Winnipeg hospital, two months ago, two have died, two more have had to have the transplants removed, a third - a young woman, is scheduled to have hers removed this week. My son is one of the two remaining - and his is rejecting, also, and he is losing the normal use of his legs.

Though he is only a layman (and 32 yrs. old) his observations appear to bear out what some professionals have only dared to say "off the record": the surgery was excellent. However, when, immediately afterwards, the surgical team left for their vacations, the post-operative follow up by medical staff on call or on roster, left much to be desired. Some of the assigned doctors, new to Canada, had difficulty understanding the language. A number of the obvious mistakes were actually quite funny - were it not the consequences could be so tragic.

Having, during the past 8 weeks, watched two of the seven who received their kidney transplant die; two others have to lose theirs, another due to have hers removed and to watch his own rejecting, my son, who has to drive his balky car to and from the hospital through heavy city traffic every couple of days, to be examined, openly admits he is "concerned" about the outcome. With a strong sense of humour he used to keep the staff and the patients around him chuckling; and in a happy frame of mind with his jokes, clowning and repartee.

"I figured; if my old car could hang on awhile longer, I could too," "Dad," he said on the telephone. "When I got better I was going to give it an engine 'transplant'." Now, I don't think it would be fair to the car."

As I said before, in my earlier article. Patients in the Terrace area would appear to be fortunate in the quality of care they can expect from Mills Memorial. However, it should be added, there is no Renal Dialysis department in any of the hospitals in the Northwest - Rupert, Terrace or Kitimat. This might be an area for which such a department is needed. We would be happy to hear from our readers both physicians and lay persons of their own views and experience in such matters.

Foreign Investments Costs Canadians Jobs

TORONTO (CP) - The Sunday Star says a recent trend of large Canadian companies buying property and creating industrial jobs in the United States may be partly behind the slump in the Canadian economy.

The newspaper says Canadian interests have bought or opened more than 300 manufacturing plants in the U.S. and have spent more than $1 billion on U.S. real estate development since January, 1977.

The newspaper quotes estimates by the U.S. commerce department that the total of new Canadian investment in the United States exceeded $6 billion last year for the first time, probably making Canada the largest single foreign investor in the U.S.

The largest single deal reported was a Toronto developer's purchase of eight New York City skyscrapers for a reported $270 million.

Sinclair Stevens, Progressive Conservative finance critic, described the trend as "dramatic and most alarming" when told of the newspaper's findings.

"It is one thing for foreign businessmen to lose interest in Canada; it is certainly much worse that Canadian businessmen are not only not taking up the opportunities left here by foreigners leaving, but are themselves seeking to go to the U.S. to invest," Stevens said.

The York-Simcoe MP added that the shift of investment southward reflects "the very unhealthy attitude" of Canadian businessmen toward their own country.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Press Must Speak Out

SUNRIVER, Ore. (AP) — The head of the American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) told Oregon newspaper executives Saturday they should be more forceful in speaking out for basic freedoms.

Allen Neuharth, president and chief executive officer of the Gannett Co. and chairman and president of the ANPA, said he is disturbed about the upcoming trials of two U.S. newspaper reporters in the Soviet Union. "In my opinion they (the Soviets) are telling you and me they are going to apply the same gag on free world journalists as they apply to their own citizens," he said. "We need to tell them we will not tolerate that kind of treatment of free world journalists."

Lightning Sets Fire

DUNCAN, B.C. — A forest fire, believed to have been started by a lightning strike Saturday night, was burning about 50 acres of trees and brush Sunday near the Cowichan River, south of this Vancouver Island community. Forestry officials said more than 25 men, aided by a water bomber, were fighting the fire, which was being fanned by high winds. A spokesman said the forests ministry has been asked to provide assistance and additional water bombers were being called.

S.A. Employee Fined $837.00

EDMONTON (CP) — A former Salvation Army desk clerk who used a false name to obtain $837 in unemployment insurance benefits was sentenced in provincial court Friday to four months in jail.

Richard McKinnon, 23, alias Shawn Walker, of Brockville, Ont., was found guilty of submitting false claims for unemployment benefits.

The accused came here last August and was working with the Salvation Army desk clerk when the offence took place.

Boy Hostage Gives Tips

CAGLIAIRI, Sardinia, (Reuter) — An 11-year-old boy who spent 10 weeks in the hands of kidnappers sent a letter Saturday to another young kidnap victim advising him to crack jokes, tell fairy tales and say his prayers.

The letter, published in the local Unione Sarda newspaper, was sent to seven-year-old Luca Locci by Mauro Carassale, the boy who kept his abductors spellbound with fairy tales.

"To pass away the time you must do what I did. Recite poems you have learned at school, invent fairy tales, crack a few jokes and say the prayers that your mother has taught you," Mauro advised.

He asked the kidnappers to take care of Luca, who was seized on May 24 and held for an undisclosed ransom. Mauro was freed on July 3 for a $310,000 ransom.

Two Bodies In Wreckage

LEWISTOWN, Mont. (CP) — The bodies of two Canadian men have been found near the wreckage of a plane that crashed near here more than a year ago.

Jerry Cloyd, Fergus County coroner, said Saturday the men were Karl Douma of Calgary and Richard Powers. Ages and the hometown of Powers were not available.

Cloyd said the wreckage was spotted Friday by a U.S. forestservice ranger who was flying a routine fire-patrol in the area.

The wreckage was in the remote and almost-inaccessible area of the Snowy Mountains south of Lewisville. The wreckage apparently had been there since April 29, 1977, when the plane was reported missing.

Cloyd said the plane apparently struck a shale canyon, broke up and burned. He said neither body was in the plane, but it appeared both men were killed instantly.

A government helicopter was used Saturday to remove the bodies.

$10 Million Coke Find

GRAND TURK, West Indies, (Reuter) — Police said Saturday that cocaine, worth an estimated $10 million, was found in the wreckage of a light plane which crash-landed on this tiny island southeast of the Bahamas.

The plane came down at Bottle Creek airport on Grand Turk earlier last week. Local government officials reported that another light aircraft quickly arrived on the scene, picked up the injured crew and then flew off.

Local residents reported that Bottle Creek is being used as a stopover point by smugglers running drugs from Colombia to Aruba in the Netherlands Antilles and then to Florida.

Grand Turk is the capital of the Turks and Caicos Islands, a British colony which consists of about 30 small islands, most of them uninhabited.

Discover J. Caesar's Campsite

BOULOGNE, France (Reuter) — Workmen building an underground parking lot here may have unearthed the ruins of the camp from which Julius Caesar invaded Britain in 55 B.C.

Archeologists said a wall, two metres wide and four yards high, could be the remains of the fortified camp from which Caesar's Classis Britannica (British Fleet) launched its conquest of the British Isles.

The archeologists said they also found a wealth of Roman coins and pottery at the site, including a rare medallion of Christ dating from before 275 A.D.

POPULATION RISES LES MELEZES, Que. (CP) — The population of Les Melezes rose from 100 to 115 this year, in what the residents believe to be a demographic record.

In Terrace

New Mormon Missionaries

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) have recently assigned two more missionaries to the Terrace area. Elder Steve Leakey, from Ogden, Utah, and Elder Stephen Hintze, from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, have come from Kitimat to work with Elder Eric T. Johnson and Elder Ken Eyre, already in Terrace.

The church has over 26,000 missionaries throughout the world, with some 150 in British Columbia, who bring the Restored Gospel of Jesus Christ into the lives of nearly 200,000 people yearly. Salt Lake City, Utah is the headquarters of the church, with a membership of over 4 million.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints puts much emphasis on the family, with respect to the family as the basic unit of society, believing without the family the world would be in much greater difficulty.

Elder Leakey and Hintze along with Elder Johnson and Eyre are excited about the Terrace area and the message they share. They can be reached at 638-1736 or 635-5864.

Nicklaus wins British Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (Reuter) — When the huge crowd of 25,000 surrounding the final hole on the Old Course acclaimed Jack Nicklaus as British Open golf champion with a deafening roar Saturday, they were not only paying homage to a great champion. They were also saluting a kindred spirit.

Nicklaus himself recognized it later when, after his two-stroke victory for his third British Open title, he said: "I think they know what my feeling is for golf, for British golf and for the history of the game, and that I appreciate what the game is here."

"I appreciate their feeling towards the game. They understand it better here than anywhere else in the world. For some reason they have attached it to me, and it is very nice."

It was the second time that Nicklaus, 39, had won the open on the legendary old lay-out where the game had its beginnings more than a century ago.

As in 1970, Nicklaus ended a three-year span during which he had not won a major championship—a distressing situation for a man who has won more major events than anyone else.

Five U.S. Masters titles, four U.S. PGA crowns, three U.S. Opens and three British Opens give him 15 of what are regarded in golf as the Big Four. Add to them two U.S. amateur titles before he turned professional and the record is awesome.

"I feel super, absolutely super. I don't know quite how to express my feelings," he said. "Of course I wondered if I would ever win another major, but I felt that if I kept working and kept playing, they would come again."

His 72-hole total was 288, seven under par and two fewer than he needed in 1970. The closest to him at the finish were Americans Tom Kite, Ben Crenshaw and Ray Floyd, along with Simon Owen of New Zealand. In the end it was Owen, playing with Nicklaus, who stayed with the champion the longest.

The unrated 27-year-old New Zealander, who burst on the scene with his back nine score of 33 in exacting conditions on Friday on the way to a 69, took the lead briefly Saturday by chipping into the 15th hole from off the green to cap a birdie barrage of five in seven holes.

WIN PLAYOFF

In 1970, the last time this Scottish university town was host to the event, Nicklaus tied over 72 holes with fellow American Doug Sanders, then won the title in a playoff by one stroke.

This time, Nicklaus took the tournament outright by breaking away from a tightly bunched field with as solid a round of golf as he can ever have played.

He scored a three-under-par 69, recording three birdies and not going over par once in a difficult wind that wrecked the chances of players less prepared for the Old Course than he was.

Nicklaus mentioned the wind later, saying that when he awoke in the morning and saw that it had completely changed direction overnight, he was delighted.

"We had it like that last week and in 1970, but a lot of the guys weren't here then and I knew they might not know how to play it. I know that wind. I remembered what lines to play with it. I think that made a lot of difference."

Hall of fame nominations

Garcia Canadian Fishing Hall of Fame nominations will be accepted until August 1.

Selection by the national board of judges is the ultimate angling accolade, and those so honored join what could be the world's most elite assemblage of Fishing Greats.

Present members are Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker, salmon conservationists Jack Fenety and "Happy" Fraser, international gold medal casters Joe Phillips and Pete Edwards, renowned journalists Gregory Clark, Pete McGillen and Roderick Haig-Broan, and 19th-century fish culturist Samuel Wilmot.

Eligible are all past and present Canadian residents whose achievements have resulted in the preservation and improvement of Canada's sport fisheries. Also, those whose contributions and efforts have been directed toward improving the skills and enjoyment of this nation's seven million anglers.

Individuals and associations are invited to submit documented nominations to: The Garcia Canadian Fishing Hall of Fame, 2440 Haines Road, Mississauga, Ontario L4Y 3W1.

'Snoopy' winner

The Terrace Reds "Snoopy" Draw was held on the weekend and the lucky winner was Mike McKuich of Terrace, B.C.

The Reds, who are now defunct, would like to take this opportunity to thank those who bought tickets to aid them in their expenses this season.

Fishing Report

Don Pearson
Custom Sports

High tide this morning at 9:45 a.m. of 11.2 ft. and low tide at 3:15 p.m. of 6.6 ft. Douglas Channel fishing was good with Sue Channel quite good although mostly Springs.

The reason for this is the last while Sue Channel has been producing quite a number of Coho.

The first report of Salt Pink Salmon caught has also been received.

It was quite rough last night and I tried the north end of Coste Island for a couple of hours and although the effort was put in, there was no Salmon caught.

The popular hook-up is still an Ab & Al flasher followed by herring strip in a super strip teaser, rolled at 30 ft. of depth.

Debuscha, the wettest place in Africa, has a yearly rainfall of over 400 inches.

All Eyes On Baseball

It's baseball season again, and many junior high and high school athletes should have their eyes checked before starting the spring campaign. Parents should make sure their son or daughter has the best possible vision before the season begins.

Roy White of the World Champion New York Yankees is just one of several top athletes who rely on good vision for top performance. White got the message on good vision in 1963 when he couldn't read the signs on the fence of a minor league ballpark. "The guys were reading things about 380 or 400 feet away that were blurred to me, so I went to see an eye doctor and found out I was nearsighted," says White, a member of the Council on Sports Vision, sponsored by Bausch & Lomb SOFLENS Division. He was given a pair of glasses and hit .350 for the rest of that season. Two years later, he was promoted to the Yankees, where he later switched to soft contact lenses for improved vision and more comfort.

More than half the professional athletes who require vision correction today are wearing soft contact lenses, according to the Council. Of those wearing vision correction, 53 percent are wearing soft contact lenses, 33 percent hard contact lenses, and 14 percent wearing glasses.

EYE TEST

You may help save your child's sight with a simple test given at home, that can be a fun game to play.

Your youngster can't tell you if he or she's not seeing well. A child doesn't know what he should see, only what he does see, yet one in 20 children between the ages of 3 and 5 does have a vision problem.

For some problems, early diagnosis and treatment is the only answer.

Fortunately, a Home Eye Test for Preschoolers has been devised and distributed by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and its state affiliates. The test contains simple instructions for the parent to follow and can help identify children who need professional eye care.

Other ways you can tell if your child has a vision problem include his rubbing his eyes excessively, shutting or covering one eye, tilting his head or thrusting it forward, blinking often or becoming irritable when doing close work. Crossed, red-rimmed, swollen or watery eyes are other signs, as are dizziness, headaches and double vision.

DEAR DAN: I do, and here it is: "Someone has said that there are four kinds of 'bones' in every organization. There are the WISHBONES, who spend their time wishing someone else would do the work. There are the JAWBONES, who do all the talking, but very little else. Next, there are the KNUCKLEBONES, who knock everything anyone ever tries to do. And finally, there are the BACKBONES, who get under the load and do the work."

Experimental Program

Starting in September, the Athol Murray College of Notre Dame at Wilcox, Saskatchewan is offering a new liberal arts program aimed at understanding and developing alternate life styles.

Classes in humanities and social sciences will be supplemented by practical activities concerned with developing greater self-sufficiency in food and energy.

A wind generator, solar greenhouse and 3,500-tree nursery are already realities, and projects for 1978-79 include an organic garden, a bakery, animal husbandry and a system for recycling wastes.

Liberal arts studies will focus on ways to help people live more responsible lives and to help provide answers to some of the human and environmental problems presently facing the world.

In addition, the Notre Dame Seminar, to be introduced in 1979, will provide a platform for discussion and research of some of the major pressing human issues of the day. In conjunction with the redesigning of its B.A. program, the Athol Murray College of Notre Dame will be making application this fall for federated status with the University of Regina. This will replace its previous 45-year affiliation with the University of Regina, enabling Notre Dame to increase its significant and unique contributions to B.A. studies in Saskatchewan.

Canada's Fish Revival Discussed by B. of M.

MONTREAL — The revival of Canada's fishery industry from the "bust" years of 1974-75, when annual catches nosedived as a result of dwindling fish stocks and strikes by Newfoundland fishermen, is discussed in the Bank of Montreal's July Business Review.

Despite sharp gains in production over the past two years and a forecast of future gains in 1978, the Review, the Review warns that "recent experience has shown that the fisheries will support a high level of exploitation but catches drop rapidly when overfishing takes place."

"They will be to control foreign and domestic fish quotas so as to ensure the optimum yield. This will take not only a great deal of expensive and difficult scientific research, but in negotiations with foreign countries it will also call for the application of the best in Canadian diplomatic skills," says the Review.

Last year, Canada exported about $788 million in fish and fish products. Imports totalled $219 million, for a surplus of $569 million. While most exports to the United States, sharp increases have been registered in shipments to many European countries and Japan.

Since Canadians consume less than 10 percent of total domestic production, foreign markets are of crucial importance, the Review says. Increased exports of fresh and frozen fish seem likely as the world's appetite for fish is at least matching population growth.

However, any attempt to build up foreign sales of processed fish must contend with the high tariffs of other countries which protect local industries. But since Canada now controls fishing quotas, through its 200-mile offshore limit imposed in 1977, we hold an important bargaining card.

Ferrari wins Grand Prix

BRAND HATCH, England AP - Argentina's Carlos Reutemann in a Ferrari won the British Grand Prix Sunday in a fantastic last lap battle from world champion Niki Lauda in a Brabham Alfa.

Lauda's team mate, John Watson, was third and France's Patrick Depailler in a Tyrrell was fourth.

West German Hans Stuck finished fifth in a Shadow with Patrick Tambay of France, the last in the championship points, sixth.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., blew the engine of his JPS Lotus before the halfway point but retained his lead in the world drivers' championship.

His team mate, Ronnie Peterson, who was on pole position inside Andretti, also blew his engine, after only six of the 76 laps.

Reutemann's Ferrari team mate, Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que., managed to complete just 19 laps before he, too, was forced to pit.

Andretti had led from the start for the first 23 laps before being forced out when his engine gave.

The lead went from Andretti to South African Jock Schecter, driving a new Wolf Ford for Montreal oilman Walter Wolf, but Lauda overtook him on the 33rd lap as Schecter's Formula 1 car developed gearbox trouble which eliminated him three laps later.

Reutemann set lap records catching Lauda, and finally got through in a scramble to pass back markers through the sweeping 100 miles an hour turn into the pits straight on lap 60.

Lauda broke the record again in his efforts to catch Reutemann, but the Argentine driver crossed the line yards ahead to score his third victory this season.

Canadians score come-back win

Bruce Robinson and Jerry Tabb each drove in three runs as the Vancouver Canadians overcame a 6-0 deficit and defeated the Tacoma Yankees by a 9-7 margin in a Pacific Coast League game Saturday.

The Yankees jumped to an early lead with a six-run first inning against Canadian starter Tim Conroy. Tacoma had only two base hits but sent 11 men to the plate as Conroy issued four walks and threw three wild pitches. The Canadians also made two errors.

Vancouver scored twice in the second inning on Bruce Robinson's two-run homer and added three more runs in the third on Robinson's one-run single and Jerry Tabb's two-run homer. Tabb added a solo homer in the fourth inning.

The Canadians scored two more runs in the eighth inning on two singles and two basesloaded walks.

Tacoma reliever Jamie Werly took the loss and Vancouver reliever Terry Enyart was the winner.

The Reds scored five runs off loser Kevin Kobel, 1-2, in the first inning, one in the second and three more in the fourth. Kobel was taken out in the fourth after giving up all nine runs on eight hits.

Prior to the start, Kobel had not allowed an earned run in 19 2/3 innings. Len Randle, the New York third baseman who had not made an error in 57 games and 137 chances, committed two errors in the contest.

Martin denies health problems

NEW YORK AP - Manager Billy Martin of New York Yankees, who last week was reported to have refused a suggestion that he resign for health reasons, strongly denied a published report Saturday night that he is suffering from a liver ailment.

New York Times columnist Dave Anderson, in a story for Sunday's papers, wrote that Martin had told friends he has "a spot on my liver" and has been told by doctors to stop drinking.

"If I had a spot on my liver, my friends would not know about it," said Martin following the Yankees' 8-2 loss to Kansas City Royals. "Even my mother does not know what shape my health is in and she would be the first one to know."

"Whoever the 'friends' who told Anderson I had a liver problem are, they are not friends," the manager continued. "Right now I am going upstairs to have a drink with George team owner George Steinbrenner, a couple more down in the press lounge, and then a couple more when I get across the bridge into New Jersey."

"What has the intimate details of my health have to do with us losing a lot of ball games?"

Martin often relaxes after a game by taking a drink from a private liquor cabinet near his desk in the Yankees' locker-room at Yankee stadium.

MADE OFFER Last Thursday, Yankees

owner George Steinbrenner was reported to have offered Martin the opportunity to resign-remaining with the club on a long-term, consulting basis- if his health prevented him from continuing as manager.

However, Martin said: "I'm not a quitter. I want to try to win this thing. I owe it to the Yankees."

Martin's health problems earlier had been attributed to a lingering virus. The problem became very apparent last month when Martin nearly fainted before a game in Minnesota against the Twins.

Three weeks ago, after Steinbrenner took some of the pressure off Martin by assuring his job through the end of the year, Martin admitted he had a serious health problem.

Martin, however, declined at that time to be more specific, saying only: "It will all come out very soon."

Martin's health was one reason for Steinbrenner's vote of confidence, The Times says.

The crisis arose when Steinbrenner threatened to send pitching coach Art Fowler to the minor leagues and Martin threatened to go to the hospital for liver tests if Fowler was transferred, the newspaper says.
